Alken Farmers in Good Condition. Aiken .- The county auditor has just finished his annual statement, which he has furnished the county treasurer, for the fiscal year 1912. The statement is a remarkable one, and shows Aiken county finances to be in the best of condition. The balance in the general county fund is' $41,890.20, and the balance in the school fund is $54, 003.38. There two Items make a total of $95,893.59. This is indeed a fine statement and perhaps Aiken county is in better condition than any other county in South Carolina.

Convict Wanted Little Vacation. Greenville .- "Stake" Morris, the Greenville negro who escaped from the penitentiary at Columbia, surrendered to Sheriff Rector. Morris told the officer that he had no intention of running away, that he just wanted to run up to Greenville on a little vacation. While the sheriff and turning loose started across the his deputies were on the lookout for Morris, they were not expecting him to show up so soon at home, and when he telephoned that he was in town and ready to surrender, considerable satisfaction was expressed.
